There's an old saying that law enforcement officers never know what type of incident to which they'll have to respond. That couldn't have been more true for a Waveland police officer on Sunday, according to a news release from Police Chief Jimmy Varnell.

"Mr. James Stone had just returned home from the funeral of a brother-in-law in Miami, Florida, who was identified as Theudis J. Rivera," Varnell said. "He was retrieving the personal effects from his relative to be cleaned and noticed a strong odor coming from the trunk. He panicked and drove to the K-Mart parking lot and called police," Varnell said: --

Marijuana sales land two in jail

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS Publisher Emeritus

Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force arrested two people on Friday in connection with the alleged sale of marijuana, which ended in a pursuit on city streets and highway, according to Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil.

"Jason (JT) Tillman, 25, and Michael Perkins, 35, weré arrested in connection with the sale of marijuana; in addition Tillman with additional charges, is being held in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility without bond and Perkins' bond has been set at $10,000," McNeil's report

"Agents of the Bay-Waveland Task Force affected the arrest of the two subjects in an undercover operation. As agents were affecting the arrest of the two subjects, Tillman fled the scene in a white sports car after being surrounded by officers, refusing to stop the vehicle and attempting to run over one of the narcotics officers," McNeil said.

"As a result, the officer was able to get out of the way of the fleeing vehicle and fired one shot at the front tire attempting to stop the vehicle by blowing out a front tire. The vehicle continued and Bay P.D. Unit occupied by Sgt. Phillip Pavolini was in close pursuit. As the vehicle entered Highway 90, Sgt. Pavolini observed a bag with a smaller one inside, thrown out the window. (The smaller bag was later retrieved by officers and appeared to contain small bags of marijuana.)"

The vehicle exited the highway at Washington Street where the subject's tire went completely flat, McNeil said. The driver, Tillman, speddown Washington Street to just past the drainage canal, took a right and jumped out of the vehicle and fled into the woods, according to the

McNeil said, "A foot pur-

Tillman's charges include, two counts sale of a controlled substance (mariiuana), resisting arrest, aggravated assault, failure to yield to blue lights and siren, reckless driving and simple possession of marijuana. Perkins was charged with sale of a controlled substance (marijuana), McNeil reported.

McNeil said he was elated by the fact that no officers or citizens were injured, or property damaged during the incident.

Mobile home park's fate still uncertain

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER Staff Writer

The fate of a proposed trailer park off of Henry Shubert Rd. still hangs in the balance as supervisors weigh information presented to them at a heated public hearing on Wednesday. District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman said a decision will not be made on the trailer park's faté until someone can inspect the site.

Neighbors Tracy Necaise and B. J. Cooper voiced their opposition to a proposed plan made by Lionel Ladnier to move 26 trailers onto a site at the bend of the road where he owns property on Henry Shubert Rd. Ladnier's attorney Floyd Logan said the approval was in order for property zoned R-3 and should stand.

The site plan for the park was approved by Hancock County Planning and Zoning Commission in early 2002 after being denied an approval at an earlier meeting because of a lack of needed permits. Necaise filed an appeal to the window provided for filing an appeal.

At the time of the appeal, Necaise stated her reasons for opposition as being against the introduction of trailers into the neighborhood.

Though the neighborhood was in an R-3 zoned area, it had become a single family home type neighborhood, the appeal stated, and the introduction of the trailer park would be detrimental to property values and neighborhood ambiance.

It was only later when she and her husband had the time to really research the issues surrounding the proposed project, Necaise said, that she realized there were other more serious problems, like the lack of water service to the property, and the lack of sewer service because grinder pumps had been pulled from the property.

Later, she said, she found that many of the permits required from the Health Department, Department approval within the ten-day Environmental Quality and officials say they know the Corps of Engineers had expired and were no longer valid for the proposed proj-

> Necaise also said that another neighbor, who would have to sign a right of way for ingress and egress to the proposed site had signed a statement saying he would not sign over such a right of way.

Necaise said the health department had made it clear to Ladnier that a project of this size would be required to hook up to a public water system and a public sewer system, that a private well would not be an

The property is in Phase 3 of the Hancock County Water and Sewer water project list and water will not be available for at least two years, Necaise said she was told.

Apparently Ladnier had said he had approval from then Waveland Public Works director Ray Eaton for the city to provide water to the park. Ray Eaton is no longer employed by the city nothing about the agreement and that the city cannot supply the water.

The two trailers that are on the land are not hooked up to the sewer, Necaise said, so she doesn't see how more trailers could be permitted when the ones on the property are not in compliance with sewer hookups.

Ladnier told Supervisors that he was in compliance and that he had been told to hold off on sewer hookup until construction began.

Basically, Necaise said, the site plan should have been approved because there were too many discrepancies.

"Don't get me wrong," she said. "I think the Planning and Zoning Commission does a great job most of the time but this should not have been approved."

Logan said that because Necaise filed an appeal based on one objection, that should be the only basis for a decision on the appeal. All the other information presented was gathered after the ten day appeal period, he said and should not be considered in the appeal.

District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour said that traditionally, evidence considered in appeal decisions had to be presented in the ten day window given to file the appeal. Necaise said there was no way that she could have gathered the evidence in that short time.

25 pounds of marijuana found on bus following routine traffic violation stop

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS Publisher Emeritus

Some 25 pounds of marijuana was located on a bus, which was stopped for a routine traffic violation on Interstate 10, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Garber said, "Deputy Lt. Jimmy Esposito stopped a Coach USA passenger bus marker on I-10, for improper equipment. After receiving permission to search from the driver, K-9 Dax was dispatched in the luggage compartment where he alerted on a duffle bag."

"A search of the bag disclosed 25 pounds of mariiuana mixed in with assorted clothing. Due to a lack of evidences as to ownership, no arrest was made.'

Garber said. "We have all of this on June 2, at the 17 mile Homeland Security in effect, yet passengers can place luggage on buses without any identification and this really alarms me."

"You check your luggage on air planes, trains and cruise ships, why not on buses? This is not the first time our officers have found marijuana on a bus, and no owner could be identified," Garber stated.

The case is under investigation by the Hancock County Narcotics Division. Assisting officers were Deputies David King, David Deer, Nathaniel Jewel. Sara Underwood and Sgt. Danny Gilkerson.

Bay Detective Joseph Kepfer, was placed in charge of the investigation in the theft of a computer with accessories along with a cordless telephone and microwave oven, McNeil's report stated.

Brian Johnson, 17 and John Morris, 17, both were charged as adults because the crime committed was a felony and both were placed under a $5,000 bond, while the two juveniles were turned over to their parents and referred to the Hancock County Youth Court, police report. The investigation by Kepfer led to the arrest of the four on June 6. Detective Kepfer, through his investigation was able to develop information as to the whereabouts of the alleged property, and obtained a Consent to Search and was successful in recovering the stolen property.

Further investigation and interviews led to the four subjects being charged in the case, McNeil said.

The opening of shrimping season this past Tuesday is always a long awaited time for a lot of residential boaters.

Shrimping seasons are controlled by the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMR), who determine the size of shrimp before opening the season.

DMR's Boat and Water Safety Department offers many safety tips for safe boating. DMR also encourages all boaters to use common courtesy and common sense when dealing with boating safety.

Wearing a life jacket is one of the most important recommendations, because the number one cause of death on the water is drowning. The majority of persons who drown are not wearing a lifejacket.

One never knows what can happen, especially when a boat is traveling. I have heard of folks being thrown, or falling from a boat in several instances.

A boat operator needs to know their boat's capabilities and never overload a boat. That is something that happens many time.

Boats need to be properly equipped. Boat operators do not need only to worry about DMR, but the U.S. Coast Guard frequents our waters more since 911 and boat really need to be properly equipped.

Make sure a boat is ready at the beginning of the season. Old fuel can be a possible problem for a boat's motor.

FCC's mistake with media ownership

he federal Communications Commission (FCC) has voted in favor of rules allowing more concentrated media ownership in which newspapers can own radio stations, TV stations or vice versa within the same market area.

I think the FCC made a Ι know mistake. Mississippians would be better served by less concentrated ownership, and I oppose these new rules.

Ever since my mother worked at a local radio station in Pascagoula I have interacted with the media. The nature of my job has enabled me to work with various forms of media from small weekly papers to huge mega-networks and newspaper chains. As your Senator I've had an up close view of the dramatic delivery, content and composition of media for broadcast and print, and I've helped implement policies that contributed to these developments. This experience includes the watershed Telecommunications Act of 1996 which capped singlecompany ownership at 35 percent of national viewer-would increase national viewership caps from 35 to 45 percent, and it would lift the current ban which prohibits single company ownership of a newspaper and TV station in the same local media market. Not surprisingly, some of the biggest proponents of scrapping the ban are huge media chains, including the metropolitan Washington. However, the FCC's latest D.C. - based Gannett company, which already owns two of Mississippi's largest newspapers, including the Jackson Clarion -Ledger. Gannett has long been labeled by its critics as a company producing indistinguishable, cookie-cutter publications dictated by corporate formula, and I am among many Mississippians very uncomfortable with the prospect of this or any other huge super-paper chains extending their ownership into the broadcast sectors of their existing markets. This could starve out smaller, more locally driven broadcast or print alternatives, leaving readers, listeners or viewers with a diminished, degraded or less locally reflective product.

This is a question of fairness and access for both small media organizations

The history of Alcan in Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor, of the closing of the Alcan Cable Plant in Bay St. Louis, I recalled how in the beginning Mayor Warren Carver saved the day in our securing this plant.

Alcan Cable has an office in Atlanta, Ga. near the main office of the Southern Company which is the holding company of the Miss. Power Co.

One day an official of Alcan asked a new industrial official of the southern company if he knew of a good site in the mid gulf central region for them to locate a plant.

This prospect was given to the new industrial department of the Miss. Power Co.

The Rittner Enamel Company has a plant on Central Ave. in Bay St. Louis that had recently been closed so this information was given to Alcan most disgusting sight I'd Cable Co.

This was around 1978

when I was the local man-With the announcement ager for the Bay St. Louis operations of the Miss. Power Co. I was asked to set, up arrangements and to accompany a representative of Alcan Cable who was to come down to inspect the plant and the community.

The comptroller of Alcan whose office, I believe, was in Wilmington, Deleware, came to my office for me to accompany him on this inspection.

After his inspection of the building he asked about room for growth. There was undeveloped property on each side of the plant between Central Ave. and 3rd Street.

We were driving along 3rd Street when we noted a two rut trail into the woods. We turned in there and after a few hundred yards we came upon the city dog pound.

Honestly, this was the ever seen.

Moran -- house arrest

pended if she pays back all of the money by the end of a five-year probationary period, beginning with a $40,000 installment.

Moran could have faced a $1,000 fine and up to 10 years in prison on each of the seven counts of the indictment.

More than 30 people, including Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre, showed up at Moran's sentencing hearing Tuesday to offer their support.

Moran choked back tears Tuesday as her sister, Mary Ellen Murphy, spoke on her

"I'm not here to try to mitigate or (downplay) what she's done ..." Murphy told Walker before sentencing Tuesday. "I just want to try to shed light on who she kindest people I've ever intense supervision so that known, and I love her very, very much. Moreover, I respect her strength, grace, dignity and courage with which she's faced major blows in her life which would have destroyed lesser people."

Murphy characterized her sister who had lost her mother to cancer as a teen, then assumed the maternal role in the family; and as a community leader and helper, and a woman struggling to raise a teen-aged daughter after a bitter divorce.

Murphy said that she had personally raised funds to begin restitution: "I gave (Moran's attorney Donald Rafferty) $50,000 for restitution," Murphy said. "It's money that I borrowed and I will have to pay back. I'm not a wealthy person. I'm just a working stiff, and this is money that I will have to pay back."

She also asked that Walker consider a sentence that would not require "My sister ... is one of the felony adjudication or Moran could take a $48,000-per-year real estate job she had been offered in Atlanta - and therefore make full restitution much more quickly.

like quicksand." also urged Murphy Walker to think of Moran's daughter: "It seems to me that (she) has suffered enough - through her mother's mistakes, through the media coverage and all' the attending fall-out of this high-profile case."

Moran's brother, Pat Murphy, asked Walker to 'Consider the good she's done in her life as well as the bad she's done, and make it possible for her to move on with her life after she's made restitution."

Judy Johnson Piazza told the judge that Moran "has always been a kind and caring person, and I am proud and honored to call her my friend. ... She has for the past year grieved and had humiliation through which she has endured a humbling experience. It has changed Rafferty said that, in the midst of her terrible divorce, as the chamber director she "got in a position she just couldn't control. ... This just got out of hand and sucker her in just

He asked Walker to consider the non-adjudicated probation.

"I always wished with all my heart that I'd had this position at a better time in my life," Moran said, "when things were clearer. ... I'm deeply and truly sorry and ask not for forgiveness, but the opportunity to make the best of the situation.

"My life and the effect I'll be able to have on my daughter and the community rests in your hands."

Walker acknowledged that Moran had been a respected member of the community, but said "everybody is responsible for their actions.

He sentenced her to 10 years in prison, with nine of those suspended; and one year to be served in the Mississippi Department of Corrections Intensive Supervision Program, or house arrest. He further ordered that in addition to the $50,000, she make $200 monthly payments toward restitution for the first year.

After the first year, he said, Moran's supervision would come back into his jurisdiction, and he would review the re-payment schedule.

If full restitution is made within five years, he said, he may also review the remainder of the supervised parole. Under the ISP program, Moran will be able to work.

Her main task now, Walker said, is to be "a good citizen. ... You have to behave yourself. I'm sure you will. Good luck to you."

John Baxter, the current president of the Hancock County Chamber Commerce, said Wednesday that "The chamber is pleased to have this situation resolved, and we look to moving forward ... so we can start concentrating on the future."

"What's going on with my child who seems bright but can't manage at school?"

Poor schoolwork could reflect problems in other areas of a child's life including relationships with friends and family. It might also be the result of a learning disability. Especially if your child underperforms in one subject compared to others, gets angry or easily frustrated with homework, says "I feel dumb... . I can't keep up." Other clues could include—if your child is the class clown, seems unhappy to go to school, complains of tummy aches and headaches on Sunday night, is symptom-free on weekends. Talk to your child's teacher first, then if concerns continue, testing can help in the early identification of learning disabilities. Results will direct you to resources to help your child develop a lifelong skill of enjoying learning. If you would like us to send you more information about learning disabilities, call us now or anytime. There's always somebody standing by who can talk with you. .

Hard Rock Beach Club opens at Pearl River Resort

BY BARBARA POWELL ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) _ Mississippi Choctaw Chief Phillip Martin, with the smashing of a guitar, debuted the tribe's new Hard Rock Beach Club and a nine-acre private beach known as Clearwater Key on Friday.

The Beach Club at the Pearl River Resort in Neshoba County is a new concept for Hard Rock Cafe International of Orlando, Fla., known for its chain of restaurants worldwide.

The Beach Club features a volleyball area, heated pool with underwater music speakers, open-air porches, tiki bar, live performance stage and full-service restaurant. The restaurant features many of the Hard Rock Cafe menu items.

Martin opened the attractions the traditional way for Hard Rock, smashing the Gipson Epiphone Special guitar on the club floor.

would have `Who thought that Hard Rock Cafe would be in Neshoba County. Not me," a smiling Martin said as he held up the guitar remains by its strings.

The beach club, which includes the cafe, is a joint venture with Hard Rock, which will operate the attractions. It is the first beach club concept for the company that, is owned by London-based The Rank Group.

The eight-acre Clearwater Key, which includes a manmade whitesand beach, can accommodate 2,500 guests, resort officials said. The beach has a cafe and souvenir shop.

Phil Clement, chairman of Hard Rock International, told the invited guests that the attraction is one of three such ventures the company has entered into with Native American tribes. Others were with tribes in Florida and Connecticut.

The Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians, owner of Pearl River Resort, said a 300-room Hard Rock Hotel is in the future for the Neshoba County property.

Plans are to open the hotel in 2006 but officials said that could change with market demands.

Clement said that Hard Rock had not decided who would operate the hotel. He said discussions were ongo-

On Sunday, June 29, 2003 Bayou Talla Fellowship Church will host its second annual "I Love America Day and Bar-B-Q Cook-off". The event began in 2002 as a combination Independence Day celebration, Bar-B-Q, and fundraiser for Olivia Simmons, a local infant born with disabling heart and respiratory problems. The event raised over $10,000 toward Olivia's medical expenses.

This year the festivities begin at 10:30 with a rally in the Church auditorium celebrating the blessings of God on our Nation and enforcement and elected. officials for their service to our community.

At 12:00 noon lunch will be served outside on the grounds including Bar-B-Q meats and all the trimmings. Local Bar-B-Q chefs will compete for "Best Bar-B-Q" Award.

Local bands will provide music from a stage on the grounds all afternoon. Space Walks, Dunking booths, and various entertainments will be ongoing. There is no charge for the meal or entertainment but donations will be taken.

COMMUNITY

Purple oxalis shines in shade gardens

BY NORMAN WINTER MSU Horticulturist Central Mississippi Research & Extension Center

isitors fell in love with a previously loathed plant in a garden on the Gardens of Madison County

While some gardeners think of oxalis as a tough plant to kill or eradicate, they also should consider the beauty of the purple oxalis. Purple oxalis has large, triangular leaves of deep purple. Its nearly 1 inch flowers range in color from pink to lilac.

Though the purple oxalis is tough, it is not invasive like the ones you have been trying to kill. The purple oxalis is from South America and is a true garden asset. In fact, you may wish they were a little more aggressive so you could grow hundreds of them quickly.

Purple oxalis is so pretty, you will want to prepare a good home. Amend the soil with 3 to 4 inches of organic matter like compost or humus, and till to a depth of 6 to 8 inches. While you are preparing the bed, incorporate 2 pounds of a slow-release. 12-6-6 fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed space.

Set out plants at the depth they are growing in the container, spacing them 8 to 12 inches apart. The crown should be just above the soil surface. Apply a layer of mulch after planting.

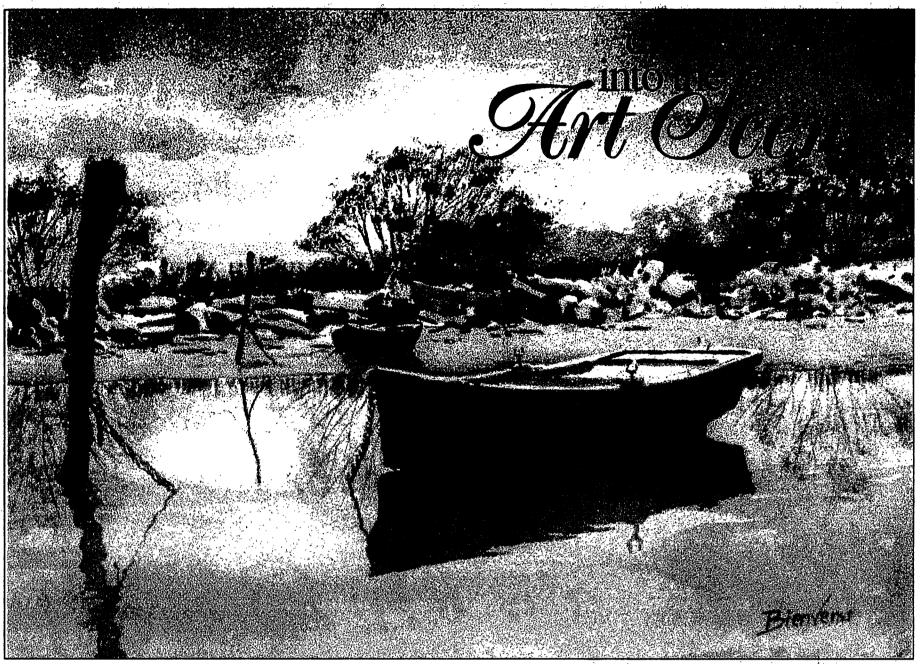

Should the foliage look less than desirable at any time during the growing season, the oxalis can be cut back. New growth will quickly emerge. Feed with a light application of fertilizer one month after transplanting and then every four to six weeks throughout the growing season.

Start feeding established plants in the spring with the emergence of growth and then continue through the summer. In colder areas, apply an added layer of mulch once frost damage has occurred.

The purple oxalis is a wonderful border plant for fall- to partial-shade gardens. Georgia trails show it will also grow in full sun. Once planted, the foliage quickly deteriorates in quality and is cut back. The new growth returns able to tolerate the sun.

I still prefer the shade garden for the oxalis and think it is mandatory the closer you are to the coast.

SOL GARDEN, 111C MAIN STREET

Pye Parson owner of Sol Gardens invites you to experience a refreshing alternative to shopping. Featured artist Sallie Wilson will be painting on-site from 5 to 8 p.m. Wilson's work is color texture and coastal imagery, from herons to mermaids. Therefore, it's not only fun but also appropriate for the Gulf Coast home. Bill and Beverly Parson, of "For the Birds," will also be on-site with their latest birdhouse creations. Made out of cedar and adorned with handmade pottery, the houses are both functional and unique.

MAGNOLIA ONE 100 N. BEACH BLVD

Help celebrate the oneyear anniversary of Magnolia One on Second Saturday. Featured artists will be Myra Menville and Linden

FIFTY YEARS AGO

June 5, 1953 - Effective with the close of May 31, 1963, all mail will be discontinued in Closed Pouch trains 7, 10 and 14, that now operate between Mobile and Orleans Montgomery & New Orleans RPO. Beginning Monday, June 1, Star Truck Route No. 26239 will be established from New Orleans via New Orleans Federal Annex, Bay St. Louis (and all cities between) Mobile, AL.

-One of the main reasons Southeastern Louisiana College baseballers finished the 1953 season in a first place tie for the Gulf States Conference title was the playing of Senior secondbaseman Jake Morreale of Bay St. Louis. Besides being an adept base runner and smooth fielder, the Bay St.

Louis native literally tore up GSC pitching as he topped the Lions in conference batting with a .423 mark.

SIXTY YEARS AGO

June 4, 1953 - An unusual opportunity will be afforded to workers on "Home Front" and other patriotic citizens, when the F.B.I. will, for the first time, hold its quarterly conference for the general public, at Bay St. Louis on June 10. There will be a film shown called "Next of Kin" and a talk by Hon. Carl Marshall "Safety of Home," besides the regular business of the meeting, which should be of vital interest to everyone. The time is 8 p.m., Place, Bay Central School auditorium on Thursday, June 10. Don't miss this important event.

Neal's Restaurant

Note that the good fortune to eat at O'Neal's For seventeen years now, Mississippians have had the good fortune to eat at O'Neal's Restaurants. The newest location of O'Neal's is in Bay St. Louis behind Burger King. O'Neal's is known for their delicious po-boys thus their well earned slogan "Home of the Best Shrimp Po-Boy." However, the menu at O'Neal's has everything from soup to steak. The appetizer selection is varied and from my own experience is served swiftly and generously. The soups are homemade daily and can be anything from a creamy chowder to a savory tomato basil. " The salads at O'Neal's are always fresh and crisp. The house specialties are not for the tiny appetite. My favorite is the Chicken Alfredo Generous portions of shrimp or chicken are served over fettuccine with a salad for only $8.25. The seafood platters at O'Neal's come with coleslaw, fries & hushpuppies and can be prepared fried or broiled if requested. The steaks at O'Neal's are charrilled to perfection and are served with house salad and baked potato or fries. Might suggest the Surf-N Turf, an 8 oz filet with your choice of fish or shrimp The sandwiches and wraps at O'Neal's are unsurpassed and over stuffed. Good luck trying to keep all the shrimp on your po-boy or in your wrap. O'Neal's in Bay St. Louis is family friendly, and during the month of June from 5pm to close kids 10 and under can eat free from the kids menu with a paying adult. An all you can eat catfish special is served Mon.-Sat. from 5pm till close for only $7.95. O'Neal's is an everyoneand-everything restaurant that will certainly please your palate with selections you want and more in a comfortable atmosphere. ife in Tuna, Texas, seems a bit dysfunctional. One old lady enjoys poisoning other people's dogs, the town drunk sees UFOs and the sheriff is oblivious to the true crimes being committed in the third smallest town in Texas.

Local performers Glen Couvillion and Chip Gordon have tackled playing 20 of Tuna's most outrageous characters in Court St. Cabaret's first show, "Greater Tuna."

Couvillion, who was born and raised in the historic 9th Ward of New Orleans, will tap into his experience as a radio personality to breathe life into his 10 char-

He has worked at radio stations around the country as an on-air personality and producer and has written, produced and directed radio plays, bits and commercials.

"I do different voices in every day life," said Couvillion, who is known as "The Man With a Thousand Voices." "Since this role required different voices, it only seemed natural to do

The Bay St. Louis resident also has a theater background.

He attended drama classes at the University of New Orleans and has performed in numerous productions including Thorton Wilder's "The Happy Journey."

Chip Gordon portrays Charlene, who desperately wants to be a cheerleader, while Glen Couvillion plays Charlene's mother, Bertha. He will don a wig and dress for his role as Pearl.

"I've never done a female role before," he said. "Pearl is like a cartoon character. and I like that a lot."

Couvillion said the hardest part about "Greater Tuna" is learning the eulogy for one of the characters. He will play Rev. Spikes, who uses a long, complex sequence of clichés in his eulogy for the local judge.

When he's not working on this play, Couvillion is writing his own play entitled "9th Ward," which is based on New Orleans characters.

"I can relate to Charlene because I was a cheerleader in college," Gordon said. "I tried out for the mascot at Ole Miss and didn't get it because I was too short. I can understand her bitter-

As for Vera, Gulfport resident said she was "a humorous caricature of little, old religious ladies in the South."

Gordon, a 14-year veteran of the stage, said the hardest part of this play was changing into the different characters in short amounts of time.

"This is the most chalnging play I've ever done because she didn't make he said. "Hopefully, it will be the most rewarding."

The Laurel native has played in over 13 productions on the Coast, including "Arsenic and Old Lace," "Murder in the Magnolias," All My Sons" and "Tools."

"It is such an honor for me to play in such an extensive role in such a great production," Gordon said. "Every time I see it or watch it, it is funnier."

Director Colleen Abadie chose "Greater Tuna" for that very reason.

Abadie said "Greater Tuna" lumps together character types that usually play the antagonists in plays with "normal" characters.

"No other play combines all these horribly, insane characters," she said. "None of these characters have redeeming qualities.'

Abadie said she has enjoyed directing this twoman comedy but she's really looking forward to the first show.
